E Rooms tribute to life of Leon

I'll do anything for Skem, says Frank

Frank Cottrell-Boyce at the Skelmersdale primary

WHEN award-winning author, Frank Cottrell-Boyce was asked to visit St Francis of Assisi Primary School in Skelmersdale, his response was, 'I'll do anything for St Francis and for Skem!'

So last week, he made good on his promise by visiting children in the school as they were holding their World Book Day celebration.

Frank spent time with the youngsters talking about the inspiration behind novels such as Millions, The Astounding Broccoli Boy, the Unforgotten Coat and Cosmic (currently being made into a big budget film).

As well as sharing secrets about how he came to write the opening ceremony of the 2012 London Olympics, Frank told pupils what it's like to come face to face with a Dalek, after working as a writer for episodes of Dr Who.

He also talked about how he was inspired to write by great teachers, who spotted his talent early on and encouraged him to develop it.

HEALTHY 'APP' SCHEME RINGS THE CHANGES FOR PATIENTS!

Report by Henry James

Project will aim to monitor residents and reward them with high street points for making lifestyle changes

A NEW project designed to ring the changes for healthier lifestyles among residents in deprived parts of Skelmersdale, has received a huge funding boost from the Innovation Agency.

NHS West Lancashire Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) will deliver the 'BetterPoints' app, which will help to motivate, track and reward people for undertaking activities such as walking, or attending health or wellbeing-oriented events.

It is hoped the app will help change the lifestyles of hundreds of people in Skelmersdale - parts of which are among the most disadvantaged areas of the country.

The app works by encouraging residents to make small lifestyle changes. These changes are logged and residents earn points for use in the local community or choose to use them to make charitable donations.

The Skelmersdale project will share in £388,000 from IA, which is the Academic Health Science Network for the North West Coast. It covers Cheshire, Merseyside, South Cumbria and Lancashire, serving a population of around four million residents.

Further information on the app is available on the CCG website and the app will go live in May.

NHS West Lancashire CCG chief officer Mike Maguire said: "Most of Skelmersdale is within the top five per cent of the most deprived areas in the nation and we are trying to improve the health of our population. Continued inside

Hospital admin move 'smacks of a take-over' claims worried councillor

Report by Ollie Cowan

Back-office staff could be forced out to St Helens if 'illogical' plans get the go-ahead

SOUTHPORT Hospital staff could be forced to move to St Helens in a potential money saving shake up, the Champion can reveal.

Under the ongoing Sunstainability and Transformation Plan across Merseyside and Cheshire, part of the discussions will look at streamlining administration at Southport and Ormskirk NHS Hospital Trust by moving admin staff to St Helens.

'Back-office' staff could have their jobs relocated 20 miles away to hospitals in St Helens and Warrington in the transfer – a potential move which has been branded as 'illogical' by a councillor in Southport - healthcare spokesperson Tony Dawson.

Although the Trust want to ultimately keep staff on site at the Town Lane Hospital, the final decision may be out of their hands if the Sustainability and Transoformation Plan is given the go-ahead.

Jan Hornby, interim Associate Director of HR, said: "NHS and social care providers signaled their intention last year to consult on closer collaboration. This includes what are often termed 'back-office' functions which are usually, though not exclusively, administrative services.

"Working with colleagues, we are discussing ways to reduce overhead costs and minimise variation and duplication of effort between organisations. For example, St Helens and Knowsley Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust has provided our pathology services since 2014 and has managed our Research and Development service since last year.

"This may lead to options being proposed that could change where some non-patient services are delivered. In due course, this could also lead to some functions being sited in different places but our ambition is to try wherever possible to keep such services within the local NHS family."

But, Councillor Dawson, said the plan makes no sense. He said: "Everyone benefits if back office functions are run more efficiently by sharing.

"But there is no logic or sense whatsoever of Southport & Ormskirk hospitals confining collaboration to working with hospitals in St Helens & Warrington, whether this is on clinical or non-clinical services.

"The so-called 'North Mersey Alliance' is throwing together in a mish-mash of hospitals whose patients have nothing in common and generally no desire at all to travel to use each other's facilities. It smacks of a 'take-over'.

"The idea of putting this particular strange set of hospitals together in a 'delivery group' is nothing at all to do with the needs of local patients. It is entirely a result of the horse-trading which has replaced sensible NHS planning.

"The NHS STP claims to be 'a new approach' to help ensure health and care services are built around the needs of local people - in fact it involves no one at all who represents local people.

"It is a form of mad horse-trading in an artificial arena trying to patch up some of the outcomes of a lunatic NHS reorganisation."

Leon Murphy

Music venue pays tribute to popular figure

MUSIC venue, E Rooms, hosted an all day event of entertainment in celebration of the life of Leon Murphy, a popular and well respected musician and tutor who died on February 15.

Leon, 29, was diagnosed with Grade 4 Astroglioma, a rare form of brain cancer in 2010 and despite having undergone extensive surgery, chemotherapy and radiotherapy bravely continued life as normal, performing in several bands as well as teaching many young people Bass guitar at E Rooms.

Despite a second operation and further chemo and radiotherapy, his condition was diagnosed as terminal in August 2016.

The event on Saturday, March 11 in memory of Leon featured some of his former pupils, and local musicians, as well as former band mates from some of the many bands of which he'd been a member.

On what was a very emotional night Leon's friends in The Insurgents, Sick Minds, Scurvy Dogg, The Adjusters, Kinky Oyster performed to a packed crowd in Leon's honour.

The highlight of the evening was the unveiling of a portrait of Leon painted by local artist and Leon's friend Jack Woodward and a plague dedicating the E Rooms Live room in his memory.

E Rooms director Dave Beeston said: "Leon was a much loved and respected friend to E Rooms, a fantastic musician and a beautiful soul, he will be sadly missed by everyone.

"The funding from the Innovation Agency will provide a simple way to help people adopt healthier lifestyles."

A spokeswoman for the IA commented: "Skelmersdale is a deprived area, it is essential that it is granted the funding to help improve the health of people and IA provided that funding.

"This is part of a wider initiative to improve the health of the 40,000 population."

Dr Liz Mear, chief executive of the Innovation Agency, said: "We're delighted to support this project which will not only benefit patients now, but create a lasting health legacy for the next generation."

The Innovation Agency is one of 15 Academic Health Science Networks, set up by NHS England to accelerate the spread of innovation, improve the health of local communities and generate economic growth.

They work as catalysts for change through collaborations between health care, businesses, local authorities, academia and the third sector, to spread best practice.

Town centre developers St Modwen 'encouraged' by interest shown in regeneration scheme

Report by Henry James

REGENERATION company St. Modwen are 'encouraged' by the level of interest from potential occupiers in its Skelmersdale Town Centre scheme following the end of a legal challenge to it going ahead.

Paul Batho, projects director at St. Modwen, said: "Together with our partners, West Lancashire Borough Council and the Homes and Communities Agency, we have re-engaged with potential occupiers and are extremely encouraged by the response to date.

"We are now actively working with our partners to identify a time frame for delivery of the project and are engaged in progressive discussions with a number of potential occupiers who are interested in coming to Skelmersdale.

"Although the regeneration scheme was granted planning permission by the Council in 2015, the decision was subject of legal challenge and consequently we have been unable to progress the scheme or make any major announcements. Having successfully defended against the legal challenge, we are now in a position to resume discussions with potential occupiers."

Responding to the Skelmersdale town centre partners update statement, West Lancashire MP Rosie Cooper commented: "I am delighted the partners have provided an update on the Skelmersdale redevelopment project.

"It is clear to me though that residents won't be assured the town centre scheme will be delivered until the diggers are finally on site.

"I'm encouraged that the partners are indicating they are wanting to get a move on to make this project as the end of the original 15 year contract gets ever closer.

"Along with Skelmersdale residents, I am looking forward to further meaningful updates from the partners on their progress."

As well as delivering new shops the Skelmersdale Town Centre regeneration scheme aims to create new leisure opportunities including a cinema, restaurants and bars.

St Modwen has promised the scheme will also bring a host of other benefits, including a high street link between West Lancashire College and the Concourse Centre, the construction of new and attractive public spaces, together with improved lighting and pedestrian surfaces.

The regeneration company has said the scheme will make the town centre more attractive for shoppers and visitors looking to enjoy their leisure time and bring a night time economy. A new play area will be created to help cater for the needs of young families. The scheme will also create in excess of 500 new jobs.

Councillor Ian Moran, leader of West Lancashire Borough Council and Portfolio Holder for Economic Regeneration, said: "This major scheme will benefit not just the people of Skelmersdale but the whole of West Lancashire. We are working with partners and progress is being made. We look forward to being involved in further exciting announcements in the near future."

St. Modwen has been working in partnership with West Lancashire Borough Council and the Homes and Communities Agency since 2007 for the delivery of a 'comprehensive regeneration scheme' in Skelmersdale Town Centre.

Earlier this year West Lancs MP Rosie Cooper expressed 'disappointment' that there is no mention of St Modwen's £10m proposed scheme to regenerate Skelmersdale town centre in the company's annual results for its North West division,

An artist's impression of what the St Modwen plan will look like. Though quite where, in or around Skelmersdale, the 'mountain range' in the background can be found, is anyone's guess. Or is it just a vision?

'We are now actively working with our partners to identify a time frame for delivery of the project...'

Head hopes Frank's visit will inspire youngsters

The children asked some tough questions, including, 'what would you go back and change about any of your books?' and even, 'What would you go back and change about your life?'

Frank answered all of them with good humour, giving a great insight into his life as a writer.

Head teacher, Terry Naylor said of the visit: "It was a great opportunity for children to learn about writing from someone with Frank's experience and talent.

"He has given them an afternoon that they will never forget and I'm willing to bet that he has inspired some great writers here in our school."

Frank summed it up in this way, and commented: "A wonderful afternoon in a school of wonders."

Songs of Praise Aled is surprise guest at hospital wedding

SOUTHPORT and Ormskirk hospital marked its second marriage ceremony of the year when a couple wed on Ward 15A – with TV presenter Aled Jones as their special guest.

Frank Heath, 72, and Kate Hart, 69, had planned a small wedding in the ward day room where Frank is a patient, but it quickly became a TV special when they agreed to let the BBC's Songs of Praise film their special day.

A team from the long-running religious television programme was following the work of the Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust chaplain, the Rev Martin Abrams, when he was asked to conduct the wedding service.

Staff joined family, friends and Aled Jones to watch the happy couple take their vows.

The wedding was the second to be held at the hospital this year. In January, a patient at the North West Regional Spinal Injuries Centre married her partner in a civil ceremony.

The Rev Martin Abrams said: "The service was a wonderful, happy day for everyone concerned.

"It may have been our second wedding this year but is very unusual for patients to marry while they're in hospital.

"It was just luck that Songs of Praise happened to be filming.

"I want to thank Kate and Frank for allowing us to share their wedding day as well as staff from across the Trust who pulled out the stops to make it so very special for them. They are truly a lovely and remarkable couple."

Writing on Twitter, Aled Jones said: "Had the most incredible humbling day at Southport and Ormskirk Hospital – wonderful staff and patients and an honour to spend time with Kate and Frank."

Vets' plan for Somme concert

SKELMERSDALE Veterans' Association is planning a concert to remember the Battle of The Somme on June 30 and members are looking for two more primary school choirs to join them.

The Association is holding the concert to raise awareness of the importance of remembrance with the young people of the town.

The group will also have a three course meal on July 1 at Evermoor Hub, which will finish the weekend off.

Alan Lewis from the Skelmersdale Veterans' Association said: "People who attend the evening may have had a grandparent or relative who fought in the First World War. It is hoped all the community will come together and the money raised will go towards the Armed Forces Weekend, which is run by the Association on July 22-23.

"If you would like your school to join us on June 30 contact the Association at alan.say@hotmail.co.uk or phone 07939660048."

Meanwhile members of the Association collected at Asda Skelmersdale recently and raised more than £400. Alan Lewis added: "The Association would like to thank Asda, and all the shoppers who supported us. We had a great time and some of the young people dressed up in gas masks and combat hats.

"We would also like to thank a number of our sponsors including the Hare and Hounds Public House and Hotter Shoes." The Association meet on the second Sunday of every month at the Hare and Hounds pub.

Roby Mill church crucifix is restored

STAFF and clients at charity organisation, Midstream West Lancs Ltd, have been restoring the crucifix in Roby Mill.

Project manager, Martin Tomlinson at Midstream, which provides work experience for adults with additional needs and learning difficulties, has worked on the project along with staff members Chrissy Clarke, Ben Pendleton and Phil Biggs.

Work was undertaken to remake the cross out of oak. Midstream's clients then helped to reconstruct the base of the cross out of stone, as well as assisting to clean the cast iron figure of Jesus, which was then repainted.

Staff researched how to have a good and lasting finish in an act of thorough preparation, applying various coats of paint and then applying a weather proof varnish. The project was approached respectfully by both staff and clients.

Midstream's customer, The Sons of Divine Providence (Orione Care) looked forward, with excitement to the return of the crucifix and neighbours were pleased to see it back in place. The crucifix, adjacent to Roby Mill School, has been a landmark for many years and now it will be for many more. When Father Stephen Beale visited the Midstream workshop, he expressed his gratitude to Midstream staff and clients and added: "The Midstream clients put much effort into this project and they have achieved a high standard of work.

Midstream clients work on the crucifix. Inset: The fully restored crucifix

"This will be another place for the Cardinal Heenan residents to visit in good weather and the school children will benefit too." Midstream clients have a long standing rapport with Don Orione Centre through grounds maintenance.

The Midstream college students and tutors have visited Cardinal Heenan House residents for the last three years, getting to know them and clearing tables in the dining room, as well as preparing and serving afternoon tea and coffee as part of their social skills training.

Whitemoss NOT the only waste fill site, says campaign group

Environmentalists call in to question statements made by landfill boss

Report by Henry James

CAMPAIGNERS against the Whitemoss hazardous waste extension have called into question a statement made by Rob Routledge, the managing director of the site, who recently claimed that 'Whitemoss Landfill is the only such facility in the North-West.'

Del Ellis of Arrow (Action to Reduce and Recycle Our Waste) said: "The boss of Whitemoss Landfill Ltd is incorrect in what he is claiming. Environment Agency data show that there are vast quantities of unused space in other hazardous waste landfills in the North West.

"Amazingly, Whitemoss Ltd omitted mentioning Minosus – a gigantic underground hazardous waste site in the Winsford salt mine in Cheshire, with a huge available area."

Alan Watson is a waste expert and chartered mechanical engineer who advises the Arrow–No Whitemoss Landfill group. He asked Whitemoss Ltd which types of waste, of more than a few tonnes, it takes that Minosus is not able to take.

Del said: "Whitemoss Ltd has consistently avoided answering our question about which waste types (of significant quantities) only Whitemoss can handle. We think this is because there is actually very little. Minosus chose to concentrate mainly on one profitable waste type."

Campaigners have said most of the hazardous waste going to Whitemoss is contaminated soil, which they say does not need landfilling.

Nicola Escott of Arrow said: "It is far safer for residents' health and less polluting to treat contaminated soil on site to remove the pollutants, than to landfill it. The Whitemoss extension is not needed for recycling brownfield land."

Nicola commented: "If the Randle site in Merseyside has chosen not to take waste on the open market, this is likely to be because of a lack of demand, not because it is full. It has massive amounts of unused space."

Rob Routledge responded: "Whitemoss is the only hazardous waste landfill in the North West currently accepting merchant wastes.

"The capacity of the Minosus facility is constrained in many ways including that wastes must be taken down into the mine via a 170 m deep shaft and then transported 2.5 kilometres to their final location.

"The types of waste that can be accepted are also very limited, for example they can't accept any damp wastes such as contaminated soils. They can also only accept a maximum of 25 vehicles per day.

"Randle Landfill site has been effectively closed as a merchant landfill site since the fourth quarter in 2014. It has no constructed void space which is why in the whole of 2016 it only received 88 tonnes of waste.

"Contaminated soils cannot all be treated and retained on site which is why it is important to have facilities such as Whitemoss.

"Some contaminants such as asbestos cannot be treated and the treatment of others produces residues which themselves need landfill for disposal.

"Without suitable landfills new homes would have to be built on green fields because brownfield land could not be brought back into economic use."

The ruling on the Judicial Review of the Secretary of State's decision to allow an extension to Whitemoss hazardous waste landfill on the southern edge of Skelmersdale is expected in a few weeks' time.

The hearing, which took place on March 2, looked at whether the Secretary of State was correct in assuming this particular site is needed.

Whitemoss Landfill managing director Rob Routledge

Addictions don't disappear overnight, solicitor tells court

A solicitor representing a Skelmersdale drug user caught shoplifting, despite having started a drug rehabilitation program, has said that addictions don't go away overnight.

Steven Miller, 39, of Evington, appeared at Sefton Magistrates Court on March 17 where he pleaded guilty to stealing four bottles of vodka, worth £148.50, from Asda in Southport on February 27, and also to possession of cannabis.

Angela Conlan, prosecuting, said that he had used a foil-lined bag inside a rucksack with the intent of beating Asda's alarm system but had been spotted by a security guard in the act. When he was arrested he was found to be in possession of cannabis and admitted stealing to fund a drug habit, she said.

Mrs Conlan informed the court that Miller had 34 previous offences for theft on record, including a shop theft from December of last year when he was given a community order and put on a drug rehabilitation program.

Solicitor Kerry Lloyd said that nobody has a record like Miller's unless they have a drug addiction. Saying that he had been cooperating with drug rehabilitation services, but that recovery takes time, she said: "If you have a habit like that, it's not going to be cured between December and February. It does take a significant period of time to reduce the risk of re-offending. He is remorseful."

Ms Lloyd added: "The best way to keep him out of trouble is to make sure that drug rehabilitation works. He has a longstanding drug addiction which is not going to go away overnight."

The magistrates extended the period of his community order to last 18 months and the length of his drug rehabilitation program to last another 12 months.

"If you still keep failing you could end up going to custody in the end," they said. "You have hit the cusp of what we can do to help you. It's up to you to help yourself."

Foodbank volunteers in Mother's Day appeal to help women in crisis

Report by Henry James

Skelmersdale and District Foodbank volunteers Ken Ashcroft, John Sneed and Milly Casey

MOTHER'S Day can be a difficult time for women facing a crisis, especially mums facing hunger who are unable to provide food for their families or afford the basic toiletries many of us take for granted.

So Skelmersdale Foodbank, part of The Trussell Trust network, has launched an appeal to ensure that local mums needing help, get a little something extra this year.

Every week Skelmersdale Foodbank sees women struggling to afford food, let alone expensive items like nappies and sanitary products. As Mother's Day approaches, the charity is calling for donations of shampoo, sanitary products, nappies, shower gel and toothpaste to help local women and their children.

On Mother's Day last year Lydia, a mum who was referred to a Trussell Trust foodbank after being made redundant from her job in a solicitor's office, said: "Every mother wants the best for their children and teaches them that in our society if you work hard, you can achieve anything.

"I've always taught my son that. But how can I look him in the eye and tell him everything's going to be okay when there's no way I can promise that? Mother's Day used to be a time when my son would thank me for being a good mum. But now I can't say I really want to celebrate it. I feel like I have really let my boy down."

Brenda Lowe, distribution co-ordinator, commented: "Every day at the foodbank we meet mums from across Skelmersdale who share heart-breaking stories about the difficulties they face to put food on their children's plates.

"No mum should feel like they have let their children down because something outside their control, like illness or an unexpected bill, has thrown the family into crisis– that's why we give not only emergency food but also compassionate support and hope when people are referred to us.

"When you're struggling to afford food, you're often struggling to afford other basics like loo roll, shampoo and women's sanitary products too.

"Perhaps unsurprisingly, toiletries are not the first thing most people think of when they're donating to a foodbank, but they do make a huge difference in restoring some normality when you're at the point of crisis. Whatever you are able to give this Mother's Day will help local mums who are struggling to know that there are people who care. Thank you for your kindness."

Adrian Curtis, Foodbank Network director of The Trussell Trust added: "It's surprising how much hope something small can bring – we hear of mums overwhelmed by the kindness of local people who have donated shower gel, nappies, sanitary products or a little chocolate."

Anyone interested in helping the foodbank to support a local mum facing hunger can drop off donations at the Ecumenical Centre where your donations will be greatly appreciated.

Police appeal to find Up Holland man

Craig Shelley

POLICE are appealing for help locating a man from Up Holland.

Craig William Shelley, 28, is wanted after a man was punched to the head and face and had his car keys stolen during an incident in Ormskirk Road, Up Holland, last December.

He is also wanted in connection with an assault in November, when a woman received bites to her neck, as well as a burglary on the same date.

A police spokesman said: "We would urge anyone who has seen him, or knows of his whereabouts, to contact us.

Teacher has high hopes of £10,000 playwriting prize

by Danielle Thompson

A SCHOOLTEACHER from Ormskirk is on the write lines to win £10,000 – by reaching the shortlist of a top playwriting competition.

Ian Nightingale's play 'Paulo & Me' has made it to the final six entries for the Liverpool Hope Playwriting Prize. As well as winning the prize money, the winner's play will be considered for production by Liverpool's Royal Court Theatre.

The Liverpool Hope Playwriting Prize is the second largest playwriting competition in the UK and it is run in partnership with Liverpool Hope University, and Liverpool's Royal Court.

Ian, a high school geography teacher, has been writing for radio and screen for the past five years. He is a member of the BBC Northern Writers group and has previously received a BAFTA Rocliffe commendation for an unproduced screenplay; been shortlisted for both The Red Planet Prize and the Alfred Bradley Bursary; and shortlisted by Philip Shelley at Channel 4 for development.

Ian was also selected by the Head of Development at LIME Pictures to complete trial scripts at Hollyoaks. His first short film script 'The Librarian' won the 2016 Special Merit Award at the Northern Film School at Beckett University and is currently being filmed.

Ian Nightingale

Ian said: "I've always been fascinated with the immediacy of theatre since being taken as a schoolchild to watch Willy Russell's Our Day Out.

"As I got older, I found my writing was deeply affected by those initial theatre experiences, and this shaped the way I wrote about real people in communities and the struggles they faced.

"Just knowing that all the hours spent hammering away on the keyboard in a darkened box room trying to conjure up this little world filled with characters people will actually care about and laugh at can actually connect with the judges and be considered for a prize of this magnitude is genuinely mind blowing."

The winner will be revealed at Liverpool's Royal Court theatre on March 27.

College students get to work creating community arts project

STAFF and students of West Lancashire College Creative Arts department have been in the Concourse taking photographs for a 'large scale' community arts project.

The Creative Arts students have been given an opportunity by the shopping centre bosses to redesign the large scale hanging banners that are displayed at the front of the shopping centre's atrium.

The photographs of members of the local community will form part of the banner designs, which have two major themes - urban/ industrial and natural/community.

The project is being led at the college by Aimee Smith who said: "This is a terrific project for our students to be involved in and it is such a great gesture from the Concourse to ask for our involvement.

"It's not every day you can say you have a hand in an artwork that will be so prominently displayed and be seen by so many people."

A number of shoppers braved the studio lights to have their photographs taken by art lecturer Gary Owens, assisted by students Matt Hart and Machaela Irving, and a team of students at the college are developing the banner designs over the next few weeks ready for professional printing.

Aimee and the college team are working closely with Jennifer Burnett, retail marketing manager for the Concourse. Jennifer said: "The hanging banner project came about as the banners in situ were looking very old and needed refreshing. It was a perfect opportunity to work with the college's art department to give their students a client project for their enrichment and work experience part of their course.

"The brief was to create something that represents Skelmersdale, that is easily recognisable and that will be a permanent fixture in our centre, at the heart of the town and community.

"I am really impressed with the designs and the amount of work that has gone in to the banners so far and am excited to see them when they are ready to install.

"Thank you to everyone who took part in the photoshoot on Saturday. The hanging banners will be ready to display in the Summer and will hang over the main escalators in the Concourse Shopping Centre front atrium."

Don't skip tests, pleads mum of three who beat cancer

Now Sheleen spearheads awareness campaign

Report by Danielle Thompson

A CHILD welfare worker who has beaten cancer is spearheading a campaign to raise funds for research into the disease.

Sheleen Glover, a patient at Birleywood Health Centre in Digmoor, was diagnosed with cervical cancer last year after a routine smear test and underwent an operation.

The 34 year old, who lives in Tanhouse, wants to raise awareness of the dangers of skipping the tests, which can identify abnormal changes in the cells of the cervix at an early stage.

The mum-of-three is walking 10,000 steps a day throughout this month to raise money for Cancer Research UK and has already raised £290 of her £500 target.

Cervical cancer often has no symptoms in its early stages and is most common in women aged between 30 and 45.

All women who are registered with a GP are invited for cervical screening every three years if they are aged between 25 and 49 and every five years from ages 50 to 64. If they have not been tested since the age of 50 they are recalled at 65.

Former Lathom High School pupil, Sheleen, who works for Lancashire County Council, said: "I went for a routine smear test and I was told that I had pre-cancerous cells which I had treated. But then a week later I was told that it was cervical cancer and had it removed.

"I have now recovered but I want to warn others to always go for their smear tests or they could really lose their chance of having children. I am so lucky that I already have children. I think the age of smear testing should be lowered as well to save more women.

Sheleen Glover

"I've started raising money for cancer after having it myself and I'd love for readers to help me to raise money to beat cancer."

She has also enlisted the help of local businesses to help her to reach her target.

She added: "Tanhouse Fish and Chips in Skelmersdale are donating all of their tips this month to my fund and Finnan's Barber Shop in Skelmersdale are also helping by sponsoring me, putting up one of my posters and putting out a fundraising box."

To donate to Sheleen's appeal, visit cancerresearch.org/page/sheleen-82

Hospital awarded £50k to deliver better maternity services

Money will be used to implement feedback from patients in bid to drive improvements, say Trust chiefs

SOUTHPORT and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust has been awarded £50,000 by NHS England to explore innovative ways to use patient's feedback to improve maternity services.

A judging panel from NHS England and the Department of Health selected the Trust as one of three winners from almost 50 applications for support from the Maternity Challenge Fund, which was set up last year to encourage new approaches to using feedback to drive improvement in the experiences of women and their families while they are receiving maternity care.

Ted Adams

Trusts were invited to apply for funding set up to support further advances in this area and linked to an initiative called ' Better Births.' Ted Adams, consultant obstetrician and gynaecologist at Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust said: "Many large organisations use customer feedback to improve what they do and we're no different.

"We want to use modern ways of asking our patients what they think about our care so that we can speed up our response to our patients.

"We must also support our staff to use the feedback they receive positively."

Mini superheroes enjoy special visit from football stars

By Danielle Thompson

Preston North End footballer John Welsh in a challenge with Luke Carter one of the children who attends Rainbow House

CHILDREN at a Mawdesley-based charity for children and adults with neurological conditions have been enjoying a week-long superhero themed awareness event.

Staff at Rainbow House have been celebrating national Conductive Education Awareness Week, which ran from March 11-March 18.

This year's theme was 'Conduction Education Superpower makes Superheroes' so staff organised visits from two Preston North End Football Club players, John Welsh and Calum Woods and the club's mascot, the Deepdale Duck!

The children also enjoyed a range of activities including making their own Superhero costumes and taking on challenges including goalie challenges, dancing, gymnastics and cake baking. They also made textured bricks to build a superhero house!

Cognitive Education Awareness Week aims to increase understanding of conductive education and its benefits to children and adults with neurological conditions that affect muscle control, ability and learning, due to previous trauma or illness. Parents of children attending conductive education at the centre who had been given little hope by medical teams have found that the sessions not only change the lives of their children but also the lives of the whole family.

Rainbow House conductive education offers rehabilitation, education and fun for children, young people and adults with neurological conditions such a cerebral palsy, brain injury, stroke, MS and genetic condition. Conductive education retrains the brain to by-pass damaged areas and find new pathways and the charity aims to ensure that all who use their services are helped to develop to their full potential.

I've Been Helping Children Be Their Best, But One Problem Stopped Me From Being My Best

Angie is a secondary school teacher who has a strong passion to help her students succeed in life and be their best. Unknown to most but Angie had problems of her own that prevented her from being her best.

"I look back at the pictures from over the years of me with the children on school trips and special occasions, and I am hiding my smile"

Angie had no confidence in her smile at all and this prevented her from showing her students and the rest of the world who she really was. She hid her smile from everyone and it almost became second nature for her. She has only a handful of pictures where she is confidently smiling and showing her teeth.

So when Angie came to us to see how we can help her restore her smile and her confidence, we knew exactly how to achieve this.

Angie's case was not unique unfortunately as we see cases like hers, on a daily basis where the self esteem and confidence has been reduced. But we know how to turn this around.

We are the smile restoration experts! Angie was unhappy with the missing tooth gap she had on her top right side which she used a plastic denture to fill in. She hated the fact she had to wear a denture that was not comfortable. She didn't like how some of her teeth were too short and chipped. She really despised the colour of her teeth the most.

The first stage to restore Angie's smile was to begin with a professional dental grade of Teeth Whitening. We then simply reshaped her teeth using an advanced technique known as Composite Bonding and had this colour matched to her new teeth colour.

The missing tooth was replaced with a more permanent solution known as a Dental Implant.

By the time Angie walked out of her last appointment, she had a bounce in her walk and we could see how much having her smile restored affected her confidence and perspective on life. She was a complete and happy woman.

If you or anyone you know, is in a similar position to Angie, call us on 01695 627 617 to book your free first dental appointment. We will create a bespoke plan with various options on how we can restore your smile.

Emilie Pinnington has just passed her entrance exam to St Mary's College

Emilie wins scholarship

THE mum of a young girl who has won a scholarship to attend St Mary's College in Crosby, has spoken of her pride at her daughter's achievement.

Ten-year-old Emilie Pinnington, from Ormskirk, will enrol at the independent, co-educational school in September after passing the entrance exam with exceptional marks and winning an Edmund Rice Scholarship named in honour of the founder.

Proud mum, Michelle, said: "I wasn't expecting her to get this fully paid scholarship but her marks were phenomenal. She got 85% in maths, 84% in verbal reasoning and 72% in her English combined. The pass mark is around 65%.

"It's a scholarship for the full five years and we are so excited about it

"Emilie has battled with a heart condition and suffers from autism traits and high functioning issues so it's been hard for her but it's lovely to see her achieve so highly.

"She came near to the top of this year's top 20 applicants and we are just so proud."

U-turn on self employed 'tax grab' is welcomed by small business group

THE decision by the Government to perform a U-turn and scrap plans to increase National Insurance contributions for the self-employed, has been welcomed by West Lancs members of the Federation of Small Business.

The FSB has said the announcement from the Government that it will scrap the plans, which were at the centre of Chancellor Philip Hammond's budget earlier this month, marks a 'victory for the UK economy's risk takers.'

FSB chiefs added that the decision was a good one for self-employed people because the tax grab would have threatened entrepreneurship.

The FSB commented that the Chancellor has listened and realised that targeting the self-employed with 'this tax-grab' was nonsensical. The Chancellor had been put under pressure by Tory backbenchers who said he had broken a manifesto pledge not to increase National Insurance, income tax or VAT.

Chris Burgess, Chairman of FSB Merseyside, West Cheshire and Wigan, said: "We are delighted that the Chancellor has recognised the strong opposition to this tax hike on the self-employed, admitting it was against the spirit of the manifesto on which his party stood, and has now decided to scrap it for the duration of this parliament.

"Liverpool City Region has historically seen an 18,500 annual shortfall in start-ups compared to the national average, and this tax increase would have discouraged even more people from starting and growing a business. The army of self-employed make a massive contribution to the UK economy. We've consistently argued, since this measure was announced, that a tax-grab on the genuine self-employed – people like hairdressers, electricians and plumbers – makes absolutely no sense.

"We look forward to engaging with the summer review into the benefits that the self-employed need to be able raise families, pay the bills when sick, and prepare for retirement.

"We need to see what other measures are brought forward to make sure they support the UK's small business and self-employed community.

"It's time to go further in encouraging and supporting start-ups – something we are committed to as part of our work with the Liverpool City Region Enterprise Hub."

Champion LETTERS to the Editor

tel 01704 392 400 email editor@champnews.com

Two kind men helped me on my way

I AM a 92-year-old disabled driver and I would like, through the Champion, to thank two men who helped me when my car ran out of petrol about 100 yards away from my home in Banksbarn.

I was standing by my car in the road when a passing car pulled up and two men got out and asked me what had happened.

They then asked a neighbour for a fuel can and drove me to a petrol station where they filled it up.

Then they took me back to my car and filled it up and I was able to carry on with my journey.

I would like to thank these two kind men for their help.

Congratulations to staff at Concourse

SEVERAL weeks ago you printed an email I sent you in which I mentioned the deplorable disabled parking spaces in the upper level of the car park at the Concourse shopping centre in Skelmersdale.

The management has since had this corrected and I would like to thank them and congratulate them on their response.

Privatisation of the NHS is theft of our most precious asset

IN response to Mr. Jim Miller and Mr. George Pratt's letters (March 8), the first point is to Mr Miller when he stated, 'Remember, if you don't pay anything for it, you don't value it.'

I have to disagree. The NHS saved my daughter's life and I value it more than Mr. Miller can ever know.

One of the key themes in social policy in Britain since the 1980's has been the transfer of responsibilities from state to private organisations – this policy is commonly referred to as 'privatisation', though the term 'marketisation' also captures the drive and purpose of the policy.

The means by which this policy has been pursued has included legislation, pressures on local authorities, ideological encouragement of the belief that private provision is superior as well as the running down of services through cuts to create a demand for private services by those who can afford to pay.

Privatisation has not been a single policy but has taken place through a variety of changes and shifts in approach and all of these approaches can be seen in evidence in respect of the NHS over the past 35 years since the Thatcher governments.

Since the 1990 NHS and Community Care Act and especially since the 2010 Health and Social Care Act, we have seen the stepping up of privatisation via direct legislative compulsion and funding pressures under Conservative governments.

At the very least this results in privately provided services being paid for with public funds. This means that a sizeable proportion of those public funds meant for the needs of the service users are going straight into the private pockets and profits of someone like Lord Branson rather than fully in to the service itself.

There is absolutely no evidence to support the view that private organisations are more efficiently run or can provide equal services more cheaply.

In fact, all the evidence from around the world shows that socialised services are far more cost effective and efficacious than marketised/privatised services. You only have to compare Denmark and the USA to see this evidence in plain view.

Public run provision like the NHS begins with the mission to meet social needs whilst business run provision starts with the compulsion (pecuniary and fiduciary) to make and maximise profits.

Universality and tackling public health problems like regional health inequalities are not the concern of a privately contracted provider.

High standards, conditions of service and training of staff are not compatible with the pressure to cut corners and maximise profits. Just look at the problems in care homes if you want to see the future for the NHS unless such policies are opposed and reversed.

One more important point, the transfer does not just mean of responsibilities, it also means of assets. Our assets. This is theft of our most precious asset to the Virgin Islands or whatever offshore haven Lord Branson resides in and keeps his coffers.

He certainly doesn't reside round here nor use our services, except in the pejorative sense.

I would suggest that it is Mr. Miller who needs to wake up.

Joseph Welsh,
Skelmersdale

Action is required to deliver health and social care to cancer patients

THE 2015 cancer incidence data for England and Wales has been published, showing that more people are being diagnosed with cancer than ever before.

Behind these vast statistics are around 320,000 individuals in England and Wales having an incredibly tough time.

These figures highlight the vital need for services to support people living with cancer.

Everyone who faces cancer experiences a personal struggle, whether that is coping with depression, the long-term consequences of treatment, or the often unexpected financial impact that a diagnosis can bring.

With more people being treated for cancer than ever before, NHS professionals are telling us that workloads have never been greater and they worry that this pressure may ultimately impact on patient care.

The fact that cancer waiting-time targets are regularly missed is another warning sign of services struggling to cope.

Macmillan will continue to work closely with local NHS partners to support people affected by cancer, during and after treatment.

However, action is required at all levels of our health and social care services to ensure we are able to deliver the care that people with cancer need and deserve.

Lynda Thomas
Chief Executive, Macmillan Cancer Support

Have Council finance officers 'screwed up?'

I have received my Council Tax bill today, and it includes the statement 'The council tax attributable to Lancashire County Council includes a precept to fund adult social care.'

Is this an example of poor use of English, or has the additional precept been duplicated by mistake?

In either case, the ASC figure is incorrect, as the ASC figure for 2016/2017 was 20.09 for a Band C dwelling, and a 2% increase in that would equal 20.49, not £40.98 as charged.

The full rate for my house is shown as £1,493.19, calculated to be a 3.4% increase over last year's figure.

However, the percentage increases shown alongside the monetary amounts tell a different story. Applying the percentage increase to last year's figures results in an average increase of 1.97%, or an amount of £28.49 on a Band C dwelling.

The difference between the actual and declared increase amounts to £20.49, which is last year's ASC plus 2%!

My old schoolmaster would say Q. E. D., otherwise translated as 'You screwed up!'

I understand that there are around 45,000 dwellings in West Lancs, and if each one is overpaying by £20.50, then either WLBC or, more likely, LCC would squirrel away £922,500 of undeclared income this year!

Fears unfounded

I recently prepared for a planned operation at Ormskirk Hospital, but was informed that due to some technical problems, the op was going to be performed at Southport.

Thinking that I would arrive and nobody would know I was due, I went with some trepidation.

My fears were allayed when I got there and within a couple of hours my op went ahead and I awoke in a clean ward attended to by efficient nurses and auxiliary staff.

Nothing was too much trouble, although I did my best to be a 'patient' patient.

My post-op care was tremendous. The food was great and on time, as was my medication.

The ward was quiet at night and apart from being woken at regular intervals to have my blood pressure and temperature taken, I slept well and my recovery was quick.

May I, through your pages, give a heartfelt thanks to all the staff on Ward 11b at Southport Hospital and the operating surgeon, anaesthetist and assistants.

However there are certain parts of the year that this part of your home can be uncomfortable to spend time in. In the winter it can be quite cold, and then as we move in to the spring and summer season, there will be many that will yet again feel their conservatory magnifies the heat and becomes a sweltering, unbearable hothouse.

Because of this, your conservatory can become an isolated unused space within your home. What was once seen as an extended addition to your living space, is just left as a space only ever used every once in a while. For Crying out Loud... Win tickets for Bat Out Of Hell!

We've eight pairs to give away to see smash-hit musical in Manchester

JIM Steinman's Bat Out Of Hell - The Musical has flown into Manchester Opera House to rave reviews... and the Champion has eight pairs of tickets to win to see the smash-hit show.

Manchester is getting the world's first look at the musical which features the songs sung by Meatloaf from the iconic Bat Out Of Hell album

Bat Out Of Hell became one of the best-selling albums in history, selling over 50 million copies worldwide. Sixteen years later, Steinman scored again with Bat Out Of Hell II: Back Into Hell, which contained the massive hit I Would Do Anything For Love (But I Won't Do That).

For the stage musical, the legendary and award-winning Jim Steinman has incorporated songs from the Bat Out Of Hell albums, including You Took The Words Right Out Of My Mouth, Bat Out Of Hell, I Would Do Anything For Love (But I Won't Do That) and Two Out Of Three Ain't Bad, as well as two previously unreleased songs, What Part of My Body Hurts the Most and Not Allowed to Love.

As with many great works of art, the genesis of the Bat Out Of Hell album occurred across a number of years. One of the songs was written while Steinman was an undergraduate at Amherst College in the late 1960s. In the 1970s, Steinman wrote a theatrical musical that was presented in workshop in Washington DC which featured many of the songs that would ultimately appear on the Bat Out Of Hell album, which was released in 1977.

Jim Steinman's Bat Out Of Hell – The Musical is a romantic adventure about rebellious youth and passionate love, set against the backdrop of a post-cataclysmic city adrift from the mainland. Strat, the forever young leader of The Lost, has fallen for Raven, daughter of Falco, the tyrannical, ruler of Obsidian.

Directed by award-winning theatre and opera director Jay Scheib, the cast of Bat Out Of Hell – The Musical is led by newcomer and rising star Andrew Polec as Strat and Christina Bennington as Raven, with Rob Fowler as Falco and Sharon Sexton as Sloane.

Such has been the success of the Manchester show that it has been given an extended run, and will now be on at the Opera House until April 29, 2017.

For full details of performances and to book tickets, contact the Box Office on 0844 871 3018.

To win one of eight pairs of tickets for Bat Out Of Hell, simply answer the following question:

Q. Who was the singer on the Bat Out Of Hell album?

Send your answer on a postcard to BOOH, the Champion, 166 Lord Street, Southport, PR9 0QA. Please include your name, address, and a daytime telephone contact number. Winners will be drawn at random and contacted by the Manchester Opera House Box Office who will call each winner to book in their tickets which are for Mon-Thurs performances. Closing date for entries is Tuesday, March 28.

Funeral directors firm launches Easter egg collection for children's hospice

Company supporting Derian House

A FUNERAL directors firm are launching an appeal for West Lancs residents to donate Easter eggs which can be passed on to a hospice which cares for children and young adults from across the North West.

Staff at Newland and Wilkinson Independent Funeral Directors, which are based at 311 Hesketh Lane in Tarleton, have launched an appeal to collect eggs for Derian House in Lancashire. It will be the first Easter celebration for the firm, which opened last year.

Dave Wilkinson, one of the owners of Newland and Wilkinson said: "We're collecting eggs for Derian House as it's a fantastic hospice and it's also local to us. We are going to meet with staff at Derian House next week to set up a partnership with them as we are hoping to start fundraising with them on a permanent basis and it's something that we're very passionate about.

"We've already had donations of around 50 chocolate eggs so far and we are hoping that people will just pick up a few extra for the children at the hospice when they buy their own family's eggs.

"If people could drop them off by Wednesday April 12 then that would be great as we are hoping to drop them off at the hospice on that Thursday ahead of Easter Sunday on April 16."

Newland and Wilkinson Independent Funeral Directors are hoping to collect as many eggs as possible for Derian House children's hospice

Roisin Sweeney, last year's Advanced Apprentice of the Year

Roisin urges people to consider new career

Report by Danielle Thompson

A BURSCOUGH accounts assistant who won a national award is urging West Lancs residents to consider the career benefits of taking up an apprenticeship following the 10th annual National Apprentice Week.

Roisin Sweeney, 20, began her apprenticeship with the Burscough-based telephone answering service Face for Business in June 2014 and last year she won the Advanced Apprentice of the Year commendation at the Let's Talk Apprenticeship Awards.

The annual National Apprentice Week, which ran until Friday (March 10) aimed to highlight the positive impact that apprenticeships have on individuals, businesses and the economy.

Roisin attends college one day a week and is completing an AAT Certificate in Accounting. The fully funded scheme enables apprentices to gain a recognised accountancy qualification, while developing hands-on skills and experience in the working environment. The qualification also provides a pathway to chartered accountancy qualifications or credits towards future university courses. Roisin believes that the scheme provided the opportunity to develop her career.

She said: "There were lots of options when I started, and in the early stages I experienced every single role within the company. I found it was the accounts role that I really enjoyed, and the company has been very supportive in helping me develop while I do an accountancy course at college.

"I've developed both professional and interpersonal skills through on-the-job-training, while also growing within the role by applying what I've learned on my course. That's enabled me to take on new responsibilities and implement new processes.

"It's also great that I'm getting paid while learning."

Second World War vehicles going on display in April

Report by Danielle Thompson

THE Heatons Bridge Military Vehicle Group are holding their next weekend-long gathering in April.

This free open weekend event will feature military vehicles from World War Two onwards and displays at the Heatons Bridge Inn in Scarisbrick on Saturday, April 1 and Sunday, April 2.

It is run by the pub's proprietors Steve and Jacqui Winrow, who aim to hold the weekend-long event at least twice a year. The April show will feature Willys, Ford, Hotchkiss and Austin Champ Jeeps, Land Rovers, Whistling Rio and Bedford RL 4 ton trucks, a Saracen armoured personnel carrier, military motorbikes, and military staff cars – as well as 'big guns' including a Howitzer, an Abbot self propelled gun, and the Mighty Antar tank transporter.

Paul Connolly, one of the organisers of the event, said: "Displays include a range of militaria including various firearms, bayonets and other weapons, uniforms, radio equipment and field equipment.

"A regular part of the display is also a 25 pounder field gun rig belonging to Frank and Angela Brown, our secretary, comprising a Morris Quad tractor unit, which tows an ammunition limber behind, and the field gun itself behind that!

"Frank and Angela provide demonstrations of the team operation of the field gun and have been known to take the entire three part rig across the off-road hill course at Burscough airfield, which really is quite something!

"The Inn itself is located on the canal at Heatons Bridge and the grounds still retain the World War 2 freestanding brick pillbox which formed part of the home-guard defence provisions. We hope to set up a small home guard display inside the pillbox again to give some feel for how a guard might have had to 'hole up' there.

"Why not come along and share the atmosphere of a Military Display for free with the enthusiasts who would be pleased to answer any questions you may have?"

Anyone with a military vehicle of their own is welcome to join the group and camp over the weekend. For more information about the show or about exhibiting a vehicle, call 01704 545786.

WE WILL BEAT ANY LIKE FOR LIKE QUOTE!

If I'd have kept all my toys they would now be worth a fortune

WHEN we were very young, my brother George and I were each given a cuddly toy.

Appropriately enough as it turned out, both were dogs.

Mine, which was a terrier, I imaginatively named 'Doggy'.

The other, because of its shape and the fact that curiously for a dog had a tartan body, was named, 'Scottie'.

Doggy and Scottie were our faithful bedtime companions for many years, and even after they had been retired from nightmare guard duties still had pride of place on bedside tables or the window ledge.

I do wonder what caused their eventual demise though I suspect they may have become a minor health hazard.

But I tell you what, I wish they were still around now - though realistically they probably succumbed to the attentions of real, live puppies at some point.

I am a sucker for those TV antiques programmes, and I now realise that over the years, George and I must have thrown away thousands of pounds worth of today's collectables.

One trait I inherited from my dad was a habit of giving things away, without pausing to consider value at the time or in future.

As a boy I built up a bus fleet of my own, based primarily on Dinky Toy models (including some early ones which could be bought for a song at a flea-market or even toy shops, happy to free their shelves of old stock.

I also had a wonderful tinplate clockwork model of a six-wheel London bus for instance, which would today fetch a good price at a specialist toy sale.

I built up a sizeable fleet. But when I started at senior school I met up with a lad with similar interest in buses.

He though was attempting to recreate genuine vehicles of the old Ribble bus company - and though my Dinky double deckers were, for instance, pretty clearly based on those of London Transport, he did make fair representations (well, using an amount of imagination) of the buses running around here at the time.

I gave him the lot.

And then of course there was the model railway that my brother and I created. In fact my mum had a local carpenter create an 18-inch wide shelf along one wall of our dining room which led to an oblong table in the window corner.

Because we wanted to recreate a model of a Great Western branch line, I sold all my 'modern' Triang trains in exchange for far fewer GWR ones.

And naturally, now some of the Triang equipment I so readily disposed of would be worth considerably more than the stuff I replaced it with.

Mind you, I was never a one for keeping boxes. The item I had bought or been given as a present, was there to be used.

And that Philistine act would of course have reduced their 2017 value considerably.

It wasn't all my fault though. My philanthropic father contributed mightily as well.

I built up a large collection of books about buses as well as some now rare memorabilia.

These remained in my old bedroom when I first left home - and dad, reckoning they were dust-gathering junk, gave them away to workmates.

My prized Raleigh 'Blue Streak' bicycle was kept in the garage.

Shortly after I left home for a bedsit I came back one weekend and thought to have a bike ride. No bike.

"Oh, your dad gave it away," said mum. "Bother!" or something similar I replied.

How much now valuable stuff I have lost, thrown or given away since I don't want to think about.

I do still have grandad's gold hunter watch though.....

School marking diamond jubilee year with series of events

Busy 2017 for St Bede's Catholic High

MEMBERS of the parent-teacher association of an Ormskirk school are set to mark its Diamond Jubilee with a series of events including a celebration evening, a disco, a school exploration and a community Mass.

The Friends of St Bede's Catholic High started a full year of events celebrating their 60th anniversary milestone by burying a capsule under two new cherry trees in the grounds of the school in St Anne's Road in a ceremony which was attended by Mayor of West Lancs, Councillor Liz Savage in October.

The Friends are holding their Diamond Jubilee Celebration Evening from 7-11pm on July 15 with entertainment provided, including a disco, and a chance to mingle and meet former pupils, parents and staff. There will be an opportunity to explore St Bede's and see the school as it is now. Food and drinks will be available to purchase during the evening from The Cricketers in Ormskirk.

They will also be marking the anniversary with a Mass which the whole school community will be attending in Liverpool Metropolitan Cathedral at 10.30am on Thursday, July 20, which parents, past pupils, former staff and anyone with a connection to the school is invited to come along.

The Friends are also appealing to members of the public who have any photographs or newspaper cuttings of stories about pupils or staff of the school from the last 60 years to email them in or bring them in to the school, where they will be scanned and immediately returned.

To buy tickets for the Diamond Jubilee Celebration Evening, which cost £5 and include a welcome drink, email Jess at jesss-lingsby@aol.com

Future hair stylists are a cut above!

FUTURE hairdressers from West Lancashire showed that they are a cut above their competition during National Apprenticeship Week.

To mark National Apprenticeship Week last week, which is designed to celebrate apprenticeships and the positive impact they have on individuals, businesses and the wider economy, staff at West Lancashire College on College Way in Skelmersdale, invited their hairdressing apprentices back into the Francesco Graduate Salon to share their successes so far.

The apprentices work at a variety of hairdressing salons throughout the North West where they learn the latest industry techniques.

During their time back at The Francesco Graduate Salon, where they gained underpinning knowledge and skills.

The apprentices have been taking part in activities to celebrate National Apprenticeship Week, with the event including showcasing the practical skills they have learned in their various workplaces and hairdressing salons.

Emma Forgie, hairdressing tutor at the college said: "It has been great to have our apprentices back in the salon today and hear how their apprenticeship programmes are helping them to gain the vital skills needed to be successful in the hairdressing industry.

Patients to trial new 'self-care' scheme across West Lancashire

Report by Danielle Thompson

Michael Macdonnell

A GROUND-BREAKING programme which aims to help patients with long-term conditions, by using technology in their own house, has been rolled out to more than 100 homes.

The Lancashire and Cumbria Innovation Alliance's Test Bed programme is one of seven sites funded by NHS England exploring if technology can improve patient outcomes.

This aim of the Test Bed programme is to help people manage their long term conditions and be looked after from the comfort of their own home.

The programme is hosted by Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust and is an alliance of a number of care partners across the North West

The objective is to help people living with a mild to moderate dementia diagnosis or other long term conditions, including chronic obstructive pulmonary disease) and diabetes.

"The test bed seeks to increase self-management, and avoid unnecessary hospital admissions.

"Patients take their own blood pressure and oxygen levels each day and are provided with a tablet and instruments to record the information.

This information is directly fed to their GP and local surgery and any discrepancies with their health are flagged up and dealt with straight away.

Michael Macdonnell, director of the strategy group said: "In just a few months, the Test Bed has rolled out technology to 100 homes to help people manage their own health and healthcare.

"Not only will these people benefit from increased control and independence, we also hope to demonstrate what can be achieved across the NHS more widely."

Young swimmers go the length at disability awards

YOUNGSTERS from schools across West Lancashire scored a haul of silverware after swimming their way to success at this year's SPAR Lancashire School Games Disability Swimming Gala.

More than 200 children representing schools across the county joined together at Salt Ayre Leisure Centre in Lancaster on March 15 to go head-to-head in a bid to achieve sporting glory.

Team West Lancashire stormed to success, bringing home an impressive 11 medals including three gold, three silver and five bronze.

West Lancashire Community High School represented the district at the event, amassing titles in a number of swimming disciplines – races aimed to give each pupil the opportunity to have fun and compete.

West Lancashire Community High School celebrate their success in pool

Amy Standrell did the school proud, coming first place in the key stage three 50m front crawl race, while Keegan scooped gold in the boys' key stage four 25m breast stroke competition.

Team West Lancashire's success was also helped by Libby Ledbetter, who impressed spectators after snatching silver in one of the competition's most fought-after titles - the key stage three 25m breast stroke.

The gala was kicked off by an energetic dance performance courtesy of students from Our Lady's Catholic College, before the Mayor of Lancaster Robert Redfern delivered an inspiring speech to begin the games. He was joined by councillor Darren Clifford, Fiona Addison, marketing manager at James Hall & Co Ltd and Rachel Atkinson, management trainee at James Hall & Co Ltd to cheer the competitors on.

Young sports leaders from Lancaster and Morecambe College and Our Lady's Catholic College were on hand to help coordinate the event and encourage the pupils, along with the Lancashire Lion, the official school games mascot.

Fiona Addison, marketing manager at James Hall & Company Ltd, said: "The Disability Swimming Gala is always a highlight of the SPAR Lancashire School Games calendar and a thoroughly enjoyable event which enables children of all abilities to participate in competitive swimming.

"It demonstrates the legacy of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic games and how the fantastic work done by Team GB continues to inspire all children to engage in sport. There were some fantastic performances and excellent sporting spirit on display both in and out of the pool, so well done to everyone involved."

pet owners in mourning

A RUFFORD based vets group is trialling a scheme to let visitors to their Southport surgery know when a pet owner is saying goodbye to their beloved animal.

Rufford Vets have placed a remembrance candle in the reception area of their Wennington Road surgery to alert visitors that someone around them is currently in the process of coming to terms with the impending loss of a much loved family pet.

The scheme has since garnered a lot of support on social media site Facebook.

A spokesperson for Rufford Vetinary Group said: "We want to let our clients know that if somebody is saying goodbye to their pet, this candle will be lit in our waiting room.

"We ask for consideration and that anyone in the waiting room speaks softly and with respect during this difficult time to assure the utmost comfort to pets and their owners.

"Currently this is only being trialled at Southport."

World renowned pianist returning to Parbold

Call the Ents desk on 01704 392403

Report by Henry James

KNOWN as one of the world's most noted young pianists Yu Kosuge returns to Parbold Douglas Music to perform in the Arena Auditorium in the Village Hall on Saturday, April 8, at 7.45 pm.

Yu Kosuge was born in Tokyo in 1983. She joined the Tokyo University of the Arts when she was four years old, and gave her first concert with piano and orchestra aged nine.

In 1993, she moved to Germany to study and added, "that's where all my favourite composers come from"; she has since won awards in Japan, Germany and the United States.

People can hear (and watch) Yu Kosuge on YouTube, they can see her playing Beethoven's 4th concerto, or watch Gijinnashi, a 'behind-the-scenes' look at her early career.

She comes to Parbold on April 8, via Sydney, Canberra, Melbourne, Norwich, and Kelso; her next concert is Rachmaninov's 2nd concerto with the Regensburg Philharmonic in Bavaria.

Yu Kosuge, said on playing Beethoven's sonatas in 2012: "The route by which profound emotions slowly lead, maze-like, to the climax is, I believe, created by the very existence of excitement within the venue and the music itself."

To find out more and purchase tickets, visit: www.parbolddouglas-music.org, or telephone: 01257 498452 (bookinganswerphone). A limited number of stand-by tickets are always available at the Box Office.

As part of Douglas Music's commitment to the NW community it has maintained its admission price for students/young persons at £5 for any concert.

Douglas Music is supported by the Arts Council, England, Lancashire County Council and West Lancashire Borough Council.

Tom Kimmance to perform at Ormskirk Music Society concert

THE Orchestra of Ormskirk Music Society is to be joined by renowned Liverpool pianist, Tom Kimmance, for a very special performance of a neglected masterpiece, the Piano Concerto in B flat minor by Swedish composer, Kurt Atterberg.

The event will take place this Saturday (March 25) at 7.30pm, and the music has been described by Grammophone magazine as "a full-bloodedly romantic work of considerable sweep", inspired by Tchaikovsky.

Tom Kimmance was born in Merseyside and his musical career dates back to the age of 13 when he taught himself the piano.

Alongside performing, Tom also teaches piano and music.

The orchestra will continue the Nordic theme with performances of Grieg's Homage March from Sigurd Jorsalfar and Sibelius's 2nd Symphony.

The concert will be at Ormskirk School, Wigan Road, Ormskirk, L39 2AT.

Tickets are available in advance from Clare on 07906 129393 or on the door (£10 adults, £5 children).

For more information visit ormskirkmusicsociety.org.uk or follow Twitter @ormskirk_music

Hopes high Jaguar stays true to concept car

Life On Cars
DAVID SIMISTER
www.lifeoncars.co.uk

FOR the past 15 years or so I've had the privilege of owning one of Jaguar's prettiest cars. Oh alright, so it's in miniaturised, mantelpiece-friendly form but it stands as a monument to one of motoring's great might-have-beens.

The XK180 (in 1:1 scale, real-life form) was a one-off made back in the late 1990s to show what might have happened if the XKR had stayed up all night downing shots and getting a bit fighty with the nightclub bouncers. It was an edgy, exciting two-seater – but Jaguar decided not to make it. My 1:18 scale version stands as proof that Jaguar has a habit of letting people down when it comes to gorgeous concept cars.

Which is why I'm hopeful the chaps down in the Midlands don't bottle it when it comes to their latest shapely creation. The I-Pace sounds like the sort of thing a pretentious IT manager might take out on their morning jog but it is in fact an electrically-powered SUV.

Jaguar promises faithfully on scout's honour that it really, really will put it into production next year. But I can remember the F-type (the 2000 one, which is much better-looking than the current car), the R-type, the R-D6, and the CX-75, all of which were also svelte motor show jaw-droppers that didn't make the cut. The C-XF did eventually make it into production as the XF, but the production version originally had a gloopy front end that took Jaguar years to sort out.

The I-Pace is too good to suffer the same fate. An electrically-powered car in the vein of Nissan's Qashqai or Ford's Kuga isn't exactly the sort of thing children are going to stick up on their bedroom walls but if the concept car's supercar-esque styling cues are anything to go by the I-Pace is going to be something else. It's got Jaguar-esque pace to match the space and grace demanded by the old Jag ad slogan too; it's got the electric equivalent of 400bhp, the ability to sprint to sixty in four seconds and four-wheel-drive to keep everything in check.

Jaguar says it'll be unveiled in production form at the end of the year, and I really hope it's true to the daring lines of the concept car, which has just finished raising eyebrows at the Geneva Motor Show. If it does I reckon it'll be another Evoque-sized hit for Jaguar Land Rover. If it doesn't there's another space on my mantelpiece ready and waiting. I really hope it stays empty...

Lifeline for Linnets after points deduction for fellow strugglers

IT was only last week that Burscough looked doomed to relegation, but since then they have been given a life-line.

Not only did they pull off a shock 3-2 away win at promotion hopefuls Glossop North End,but they were given an extra boost when news came through that relegation rivals Prescot Cableshad been dockedthree points.

All this means that Saturday's home against Kendal Town becomes a must win match for Linnets fans.

On the other hand Skelmersdale United are now in deep trouble. Last week's defeats at home to Sutton Coldfield Town 3-1 and away at league leaders Blyth Spartans 4-0 leave them in dire straits.

Skelmersdale were due to face Ashton United last night (Tuesday) and then they host Buxton this Saturday.

They could be relegated by Saturday if results don't go their way.

Burscough can still pull off an unlikely rescue act, and five wins out of six, or four wins and a draw, would make things interesting.

Skem battle with pride against table toppers

Report by Neil Leatherbarrow

Blyth Spartans 4
Skelmersdale United 0

SKELMERSDALE suffered a heavy defeat against table toppers Blyth Spartans to leave their likely relegation from the league to be confirmed in the coming weeks.

A staggering 62 points separated the two sides going into the match, and the result leaves Skelmersdale 20 points from safety with only eight games remaining.

As expected, Blyth had a good majority of the possession, but not providing Skelmersdale goalkeeper Joe Hilton with a viable shot to save.

Skem's Seb Bradshaw brought a save out of Blyth goalkeeper Paul Woolston before Blyth got their breakthrough on 36 minutes.

Maguire took the ball wide on the right and cut in towards goal, his shot come cross from a tight angle sneaking inside the far post. Two minutes later Blyth made it 2-0. Armstrong chased a long bouncing ball and successfully contested a challenge from Hilton, he then crossed into the box and arch goal poacher Maguire tapped the ball home his second goal.

It was the 64th minute before Blyth put the game beyond Skelmersdale's reach with a well organised set piece.

A left-wing corner was headed on by Ryan Hutchinson to Jordan Watson at the far-post and he duly headed home from six yards.

The final goal came from Armstrong, finishing off a quality passing move that saw Sean Reid present him with the chance from three yards.

Skelmersdale, who have won only one game since November last year, didn't look like winning this one.

However, they did have the pride to make sure they didn't suffer too badly against a team that is likely to be two divisions above them next season.

Linnets win five goal thriller

Glossop North End 2
Burscough 3

BURSCOUGH pulled off a shockvictoryin a five goal thriller against promotion chasing Glossop to give themselves a relegation life-line.

The Linnets, who are rooted to the bottom of the table, went into the match as huge underdogs but snatched a priceless three points after a stunning strike late strike by Adam Gilchrist.

Glossop started strongly and opened the scoring on 17 minutes when Linnets goalkeeper Ritchie Mottram lost the ball to the pressing Ben Richardson who won the ball and scored from an acute angle.

Mottram made up for any blame that might be aimed at him with a pair of saves on 31 minutes that kept Burscough in the match.

As the game went on Burscough gained confidence and on 72 minutes they were rewarded when a Lee Hughes shot beat Cooper at his near-post.

Three minutes later Burscough went 2-1 up; Hughes was again the marksman heading just inside the post.

Glossop forced Burscough back, Max Leonard, Karl Jones and Richardson all saw goal bound efforts saved by Mottram until with four minutes to go Karl Jones was put clean in on goal, this time he slotted past Mottram to equilise.

In the 88th minute a ball was cleared from the Glossop area high into the night sky and dropped to Adam Gilchrist 25 yards from goal.

He let the ball bounce once then volleyed a left foot shot that dropped over Cooper into the net in text book fashion.

In a frantic last few minutes Glossop got one chance, a knock down dropping to Leonard, but Mottram went sprawling to his right and the danger was over.

It was only Burscough's second away win of the season but it sets up an exciting clash at Prescot Cables this Saturday.
